TRY TO OUST REPUBLICAN

Four Democrats Want Hackensack Postoffice Job.

[From The Tribune Bureau.] Hackensack, "N. J., Nov. 9.-The fact that President Woodrow Wilson recently reappointed two Republican postmasters in Bergen County has stirred Representative Archie C. Hart, of Hackensack, sufficiently for him to make a statement, hoping thereby to stop the flood of petitions of Republican officeholders.

The fact, also, that four Democrats afe striving for the Hackensack postoffice apointment makes President Wilson's action all the more significant, and the friends of Postmaster William Jeffers, who was appointed by former President Roosevelt, are hopeful that the President will adhere to his statement made some time ago that he would not remove an efficient postmaster or other efficient official for political reasons only. James Norton, editor of "The Bergen News," a Hackensack daily paper, in which Representative Hart is interested, seems to be in the lead among the four Democratic aspirants. The others are J. Elliott Haring, John Quinn, jr., and Emil Schiblion.

Southern Representation and Successor to Chairman Hilles To Be Considered.

[From The Tribune Bureau.] Washington, Nov. 9.—The first actual teps toward the reorganization of the Reublican party and preparations for the ampaign of 1916 will be taken when the national committee meets at the capital ext month, pursuant to the call issued by

The reorganization of the national comnittee and the selection of a successor to Mr. Hilles, who, it is expected, will give up the chairmanship, are some of the matrestricting Southern representation and recognizing delegates chosen by primary elections there is little difference of opinion. The advisability of carrying out these fundamental reforms meets with almost unanimous approval.

Some Republicans do not think it is necessary to call a national convention to make these changes and that the committee has the authority to do so, while even those who do not agree to this idea do not actually oppose it. The question is ambassador one of expediency alone. There is some doubt that full attendance can be secured that the impression which might go out as a result of small attendance would be disadvantageous to the party.

Others Want Convention.

There are those, on the other hand, who believe that, even if the national committee had the power to carry out the desired reforms, a convention would be advantageous to demonstrate before the its opponents believe or are willing to admit, and that it is devoting itself earnestly to the task of putting its house in

Senator Cummins has conceived the plan of permitting the states to settle their own controversies in the case of contested delegations. Objection is made to this on the ground that it is impracticable. The question involved in the matter of con tested delegations will be much minimized in the 1916 campaign, because a large percentage of the delegates will be of machine methods in rounding up Southposition to use the patronage at their dis- sadorship to Russia "for one year only. posal to carry through a preconceived

One of the perplexing questions before the committee will be the choice of a successor to Mr. Hilles as national chairman. It appears to be difficult to find the State Department. Leaders Taking Heart.

Republican leaders in Washington are lisposed to take heart, not only because of the results of the recent elections, but also because of the general conditions which involve the fortune of the Demo cratic administration. Many of them take the view that the country, which is aiways disposed to look with favor on a new President, will soon take stock and weigh the deficiencies against the accomplishments of the administration. They believe that the tariff law, the agitation over the currency legislation and the threat of more trust legislation at the regular session of Congress, all taken to-gether, are beginning to shake the confidence of the country in the efficiency of the administration.

The progress of political events, it is generally believed, tends to prepare the in spite of the excise law. ground for the return of the Republican party to power, and it is felt that the question of success or failure will rest on the capacity of the party to put its own

MR. BARNES ANALYZES POLITICS OF ASSEMBLY

Clean and Honorable Record Is Desire, Says Republican State Chairman.

William Barnes, jr., chairman of the Republican State Committee, issued a statement last night in which he summed up the voting strength in the next Assembly as, Republicans, 83; Democrats, 48; Progressives, 19.

"So many conflicting statements have been made," said Mr. Barnes, "regarding the complexion of the next Assembly, that I feel I should make clear the exact facts. There have been elected to any kind: Republicans, 73; Democrats

Republicans elected who were also nominated by the Progressive party; there have been eleven Democrats elected also nominated by the Progressives: there preferred by Mrs. Isabella Greenberger, were four Progressives elected who were also nominated by the Democratic party, and there have been eleven Progressives elected who were also nominated by the Republican party. Reorganization Restricting the Now Believed Peoria Man's Name Will Never Be Sent to Senate by Wilson.

> [From The Tribune Bureau.] Washington, Nov. 9.—Deeply interested in the revelation that Henry M. Pindell, of Peoria, Ill., had been offered a one year term as ambassador to Russia, and the statement of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, given on the assurance of the Secretary of State, that there would be no work attached to the mission during that year, the administration seeing to it that there will be no treaties to negotiate and no political affairs to bother with, the Russian government has already shown a deep interest in the matter, and is making inquiries as to the administration's intentions. The appointment of Mr. Pindell for a year only would be distasteful to Russia. The government at St. Petersburg would far rather have there a diplomat whose appointment has some air of permanency, in order that the relations between the two countries could be carried on in an efficient manner.

It is firmly believed here that Mr. Pindell's name will never be sent to the Senate by the President, or, if it is, that the President will make it entirely clear that Mr. Pindell will serve out a full term as

NEWARK OUSTS BACCHUS

New Police Chief Enforces Law Long Ignored,

Newark was really "dry" yesterday for the first time since the enactment of the Bishop law, several years ago. Chief of Police Michael T. Long, recently placed at the head of the city's force, was the man who clamped down the "lid." Even the restaurants refused to serve intoxicating beverages with meals. There were none of the usual police theatricals about the closing down either. The general public was not let in on the "secret" until efforts were made to get into the saloons which had openly done business

The saloons closed their doors at midnight. The new police chief told the police captains on Saturday that he would hold each responsible for the conditions affairs in order and to make a clean and in his respective precinct, and made it plain that he meant business. The result was that every saloonkeeper was notified on Saturday night that the excise law was to be no longer winked at.

There was less drinking yesterday in Jersey City saloons than there has been on Sundays for several months. This was undoubtedly a consequence of the charge to the Hudson County Grand Jury last Friday by Judge Tennant, of the Common Pleas Court, in which he directed their attention to violations of the Bishop law in Hudson County.
